

LIGHT SEEKING ROBOT

The light following robot follows the light with the help of photo diodes. The robot would continually turn right until it senses a light through an analogue input, upon which it will start moving forwards. The program would continually loop forever.